Canvas Environmental Images

The corporate headquarters for Getty Images, Seattle Washington, partnered with Stella Color to produce oversized canvas stretcher bar wraps of original Getty Images content. Stella Color fabricated special cross-braced stretcher frames and integrated a oversized French cleat to secure these 20' wide images to the wall with security retainers. The stretcher frames were assembled and stretched at the Stella Color facility in the Georgetown area of Seattle. A local transportation company arranged the cross-town logistics and Stella Color's field service team managed the on-site installation.
